

MIDTOWN MADISON – NEIGHBORHOOD CENTER

Madison is a suburban-Huntsville city providing shopping destinations to over 50,000 people and growing. Midtown Madison, the north end of Madison's downtown core, is a strong and growing neighborhood center anchored by Kroger grocery store at the intersection of Hughes Road where Old Madison Pike (east) becomes Browns Ferry Road (west). Just three (3) miles west of Huntsville's Cummings Research Park and at the heart of the Madison community, Midtown Madison has capacity to add a more intense commercial district as well as residents to this centralized location.

Midtown Madison includes Madison's public library, several sit-down restaurants including Applebee's and Casa Blanca. Primrose educational day care, several medical offices, fast food options, personal services, Dollar General Market, and several pharmacies are currently located in this commercial hub.

Beyond Midtown Madison to the north is Bob Jones High School, the largest high school in the state. South along Hughes Road is more shopping and convenience commercial, City Hall and Police Station, new Hogan Family YMCA, Insanity Skate Park, and the Madison Market Center south of Mill Road/Portal Lane which includes Benders Gym and several other thriving businesses.

Small and large tracts of land are available providing for a wide range of possibilities in Midtown Madison for restaurants and retail, hotels, residential, and office. Within the 3-mile ring from the Hughes Road/Browns Ferry intersection over 39,144 people live in 15,133 households with a 2009 estimated avg. household income of $83,932. (source: STDB)

INVESTMENT OPPORTUNITIES – MIDTOWN MADISON

In this neighborhood center shopping area the City seeks to intensify retail and restaurant uses that offer daily conveniences for residents and employees alike. As investors look to add square-footage to this “bulls-eye” shopping area – the City intends to invest in additional transportation improvements including a signal at Hughes Road and Plaza Blvd. providing easier access and linking to the Kroger Plaza Centre.

As the City has continued to grow, this major crossroads at Hughes Road and Old Madison Pike/Browns Ferry Road has been bolstered by a population of over 50,000 surrounding it in a 3-mile radius. The primary goals for Midtown Madison include encouraging expansion of this neighborhood center and infill the key parcel (40± acres) at Wall Triana Highway and Browns Ferry Road. Other goals include:

- attract a small-store format hardware store;
- attract a pet store to provide convenient pet supplies for Madison’s pet-loving families;
- encourage a small to mid-size hotel to cater to family visitors, local tournament visitors, as well as those visiting nearby the research park;
- attract at least one restaurant serving breakfast to complement the existing restaurants;
- improve traffic access and circulation through road widening, new traffic signals, and other traffic moving and calming measures;
- promote interconnectivity of the existing Kroger Plaza Centre with existing and new development on Plaza Blvd. as well as with undeveloped acreage to the west to Wall Triana Highway;
- unify and strengthen the appearance of Midtown Madison, the north end of Madison’s downtown core, with appropriate building materials, pedestrian amenities, streetscape elements; and
- retain existing businesses, continue to foster the neighborhood/convenience shopping environment.
